A Taxpayer's Guide: Donated Good and the IRS

Most people don't realize they are entitled to a tax deduction when they donate items to charities. Depending how much to deduct can be a problem. The IRS guideline for establishing the deduction is "fair market value. Fair Market value is considered the price you, an informed and willing seller; would get if you sold your item to an informed and willing buyer. Some charities give donors an appraisal value, Paradise Bound does not. In either case, the IRS requires proof you made the donation and documentation supporting its appraised value. The following guidelines, prepared with the help of Goodwill Industries and the Salvation Army, suggest some price ranges for donated items in good condition.
